Geoff was previously awarded the Australian Region Trainer Award for his work in the Asia Pacific region with a multinational, bluechip company. His style has been described as inspirational and business-driven, due in part to his commitment to provide models which work – at both an individual and business level.

His passion for delivering top-quality training & development services led him to establish his own consultancy, RED Training & Streamlining Solutions, in 2004. He has developed a client base which draws on his abilities, in particular around tailored training, employee opinion survey design, analysis and delivery, change management and people performance improvement.

Geoff has an Honours degree in Business Administration, a Post-graduate in Human Resource Management and is certified to undertake accredited training nationally and internationally.
